MOM, BUTTONS AND VICKY,

Since this is the last Christmas season that we will share together this century, I thought it fitting to give a gift that you hopefully will value and keep with you for the rest of your lives.

In these boxes is the legacy and I what I believe to be the destiny of our family...to be involved in racing.

Although, the success and scale upon which we were involved may not have reached Dad's and our expectations, racing and it's required optimism became the basis and foundation of our beings and attitude.

The attitude of optimism is one of the greatest virtues to have, because without optimism life's disappointments can discourage and defeat you.

I am proud that we have pulled together to remain a part of this wonderful sport, and I have no doubt that our family will find it's rightful place in the history of racing through a combination of friendships, honesty, perseverance, optimism or as now seems likely the practical means of innovation and technology.

I hope that each of you, will forever be adding to your collection of "Winners"

Merry Christmas and Happy New Millennium.

Love,
Hardave
