

'Dor' the final movie in UCFV's South Asian film festival

The University College of the Fraser Valley wraps up its Ehsaas South Asian film festival on Wednesday with Dor ["The string of my freedom"], directed by Nagesh Kulkarni.

It is a moving tale that features two women who are living in different parts of India.

Their fate is strung together by one incident that changes both of their lives forever.

The story follows the women as one undertakes a long journey to save her love, and the other dares to break the shackles of tradition and choose life as her heart wants it.

Dor, which is about the empowerment of the weak, is a beautiful story of love, loss, friendship, and courage.

The film is entertaining and also has multiple messages that are delivered in the subtlest manner.

It starts at 6:30 p.m. and will be shown at the UCFV Abbotsford campus [33884 King Rd., Abbotsford] in the lecture theatre, room B101.

Admission is free and all are welcome to attend and enjoy.
