Anjali Banerjee will be at UFV's Centre for Indo-Canadian Studies on February 24 to read from her children's fiction and 'chick lit'. She will discuss the challenges of navigating the mainstream publishing industry as part of a rising wave of South Asian authors. Her presentation will also address her reason for being in BC's Fraser Valley: her recent children's novel, Looking for Bapu is featured in the 2009 Global Reading Challenge.
