Last year we registered as Freshmen aviators, and this year, as we had to enlarge our plane, the faculty suggested that we change the name from "Freshman" to "Sophomore," which we gladly consented to do.

We had to give up our pilot, Mr. Michel, but we were very fortunate to secure Professor Spaulding.

As our plane is larger we thought it would be too much of a job for one mechanic to serve the whole year, so we divided the honor between Mr. Eiselstein and Mr. Taylor.

We have been doing quite a bit of barnstorming over the country villages of Latin, Algebra and English, which is a larger town than the English we passed over last year. We have also tried some stunt flying in the village of Biology because it is Mr. Spaulding's home town.

Once we came near enough to earth to initiate the Freshmen who wanted to take a ride, a privilege which we would not allow them.

You ask us again, where is our landing field? Well, it is Senior Field of Pasadena College Academy, 1930.

The Cleonian Literary Society and the Delta Theta Chapter have had a very successful program this year. The object of these literary societies is to put on good programs, which develop us physically, mentally and spiritually. In a marked degree we have succeeded in doing this but not without the help of our faithful sponsors, Mrs. Widmeyer and Mr. Spaulding.

We have had several good times together. Anyone who heard the Cleonian "Symphony Orchestra" will never forget it.

In athletics the Cleonians and Delta Thetans have several records of which they are proud. On field day, the Delta Thetans walked off with the track meet honors, not only getting the most number of points, but having the three high-point men of the day. The Delta Theta in doubles tennis players also won the championship of the school. The Cleonian girls carried away many first and second places on field day, as well as winning every game of basketball that they played.

Several of us are leaving our society this year. We regret this very much, but we wish the very best of luck to the ones who take up the duties next year.

IN SEPTEMBER, 1926, a group of young aviators, twenty-four in number, began the flight for a long and perilous journey. We chose Professor Michel, an expert in educational aviation, as our pilot. Before many days we struck contrary air currents, called Sophomore winds, and our ship seemed direly threatened but every Freshman was at his post of duty, and soon we were victorious with no hurt to our plane or crew.

Before long we came to the high mountains of Algebra, Latin, English, History and Spanish, over which we must fly. We struck mid-way on the peak called Spanish, but as investigations were made we found that no real harm had been suffered, though we found the high altitude made some a little dizzy.

I have suggested the name of our plane: Freshman, and one wing we call Prayer, the other Christian Humility. Mr. Rowland serves as chief mechanic and most of our flyers are Christians, so we expect to reach our destination safely.

You may ask: "Where is our great landing field?" We are glad to tell you: "Senior Field of Pasadena College in 1930."
