IMPORTANT

Understanding East Indian Cultures

To Coordinators and Resource Persons:

We have finally evolved the following suggested procedure for the discussion period in the first session, February 15:

Following the introduction and the film "Writings on the Sand", we should be able to get into our 3 groups by 8:20 p.m. or so.

Coordinators will start by referring back to the film and leading into a discussion of health and nutrition. (Some basic materials on these topics is enclosed and has been sent to participants for reading before this session.) Cultural aspects, and possibly education as well, will doubtless arise.

We suggest that at least 20 minutes be reserved (e.g. from 9:10 - 9:30) for a broader exploration of participants' interests. They may wish to divide themselves into smaller sub-groups for the second session.

At the end more resource material will be given to everyone to read before the second session.

Attached, for your information, are samples of questions sent in by registrants.

We have had to close registration. Would you please inform anyone interested that we have no more space!

With best wishes!

Yours sincerely,

Marjorie V. Smith
